

Brief CV

Name	MENG Fanwen	Gender	Male
Title (Pro./Dr.)	PhD	Country	Singapore
University/Department	National Healthcare Group, Singapore/Health Services and Outcomes Research
Personal Web Sites	NIL
Research Area	Hospital capacity planning and resource allocation; Population health and health care; Medical decision making; Robust optimization; Logistics and supply chain management
Dr. Meng Fanwen is working as operations research specialist at Department of Health Services & Outcomes Research of National Healthcare Group, Singapore. Dr. Meng obtained a PhD in operations research (OR) from National University of Singapore (NUS). Prior to joining National Healthcare Group, he worked with NUS and the University of Southampton in UK on problems concerning operations planning and management in deterministic or uncertain environments. His recent research interests include capacity planning and resource allocation in hospital, medical decision making, population health, robust optimization, logistics and supply chain management. Some of his research work has been published in leading OR and/or health services research journals including Operations Research, European Journal of Operational Research, Mathematics of Operations Research, SIAM Journal on Optimization, Mathematical Programming, Health Care Management Science, and Health System.

*All the columns need to be filled in.